We Have Contrasts But We Lack Safety "No Competition," Coolidge Right We Want Supremacy Current Events By Arthur Brisbane

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Dec. 18.—Life and climate in the United States are not monotonous. Violent contrasts make existence interesting. For instance, this train left on Tuesday over the Southern Pacific tracks from San Francisco, where the average summer temperature is 83, and the average winter temperature is 51. Leaving Cheyenne now, on the Union Pacific system, going from Wyoming into Nebraska, the conductor tells you, "It's six below zero now and getting colder."

THE OMAHA Morning Bee quotes President Coolidge as opposed to any armament competition with other nations. The President is right, as usual. There should be no competition but absolute, unquestioned supremacy. This nation should be beyond competition; it should have everything needed to make successful attack impossible, and then stop regardless of what others do.

As part of the plan for peace through preparation, the United States should have a fleet of flying ships at least double that of any other nation in the world. We have twice as much territory worth defending as any other modern nation.

The British set the example. They are not competing with other nations. They simply take time to make the British Empire safe.

When the war came we were glad to have British ships carry our soldiers, goods and passengers. After we entered the war we were glad to know that the British fleet, and British submarines, made impossible any German raid across the Atlantic.

THE PRESIDENT, you may be sure, objects to an out-of-date, foolish plan for building battleships to oblige the powers that control our navy. These powers are the oil companies and the steel companies. Oil companies want battleships to burn oil; steel companies want the forty-five million dollar job.

The President knows that the battleship is out of date, and that the cost of one battleship, forty-five million, spent by honest means, say, by "pacifistic grafters," would give this country a flying fleet as great as that of France. The cost of one battleship would give us a fleet of airplanes as great as any in the world. And the price of five machines, which is what it ought to spend on flying machines now, would make this country safe in the air, and therefore safe everywhere.

THEM AND METHODS change little, and that character for conquest and revenue changes not at all. Desire is strong at this moment in Asia. For centuries the women and children of Eastern Europe lived in horror of the hoven and yellow men with slanting eyes and heavy swords that came on foot and on shaggy ponies, marching westward, killing and devouring as they passed.

The next visit from Asia will come through the air, not on foot, nor bound for Europe, but flying across the Pacific Ocean, bound for this country. At this moment Asia would send, carried in huge freighters to avoid the seven thousand mile flight, enough machines to destroy all the principal cities on the Pacific coast. And that is fact, not theory.

THE WEATHER Rain tonight and probably Saturday; much colder Saturday night; fresh shift of wind becoming strong northwest. Light air vehicles before 1:45 p. m.

DEATH IN COLD WAVE, DRIVING EAST TO HUB

Although rising temperature in Boston today melted the shell of ice that made walking dangerous and hampered vehicular traffic, a sharp drop is looked for tomorrow with intense cold on Monday when the frigid wave that has held the West in its grip some days, hits the Atlantic seaboard.

Weather Forecaster Loveland said today the wave which had been expected earlier this week, had not been sent but merely delayed. There will be light rain tonight and in the forenoon tomorrow, he said, and then the sudden temperature drop may be looked for.

The lowest recorded here during the night was 22 degrees and it from the drizzling rain on streets and sidewalks causing injuries to scores of persons who slipped on

QUERIES GOVERNMENT ON INDIAN MEASURES

London, Dec. 18 (A.P.)—Demand of the policy pursued with regard to the emergency powers exercised in Bengal under the new royal ordinance promulgated in October was raised in the House of Commons today by John Curry, Labor member for Rangoon. Curry said British feeling in India, and Winston Churchill, under secretary for India, said Mr. Curry did not realize the gravity of the situation confronting the Indian government when the ordinance supplementing the original law was promulgated. He indicated the ordinance offered the only way in which the government could vigorously suppress methods of terrorism and murder with bomb and revolver.

Society Dancers to Invade Tongland for Chop Suey and Chow Mein

By BETTY ALDEN

I HEAR that a certain jolly crowd will leave the senior supper dance at midnight tonight and head for the Chinese.

Their purpose is not to join in any of the somewhat lively Tong wags, but merely to indulge in some of the tasty dishes at which the Orientals are such culinary masters.

Having partaken of their chop suey or chow mein, the "senior" will return to the Copple-Piazza for the rest of the dance—which won't be over until 1 o'clock.

SINCE, of course, a supper is served at the supper dance, the idea of going to Chinatown for the midnight "snack" is rather unique.

Most everyone else will remain in the ballroom at the supper tables. Which reminds me that several familiar faces will be missing when the first of those important functions takes place at the Copple-Piazza tonight. The hairdressed Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, always a leading spirit for the senior dances, will be missed because of a family bereavement, as will also Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, passed away a few months ago.

Thrilling Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman, whose sartorial creations are always quite perfect, is spending the Winter in Paris. I note, however, that her name adorns the patroness list nevertheless.

Spiritfully Mrs. Peggy Foster also is in Paris, whether she and her husband sailed in September to take up their residence indefinitely because of new business connections.

AMONG the various dinners preceding tonight's supper dance is the one being given by Mrs. E. Preble Motley, Jr., the former Dorothy Fremont Smith.

The Motleys, who have formerly been of the year-round colony at Beverly Farms, are this season spending the colder months in town. They are occupying the house at No. 4 Marlboro street, which belongs to Mrs. C. M. Ward.

SPARKING of supper dance, Wednesday night will be the first of the junior supper dances very nicely launched.

There was the usual outpouring of debutantes, girls who've been "out" a year or more, as well as some of the younger matrons, several of the latter helping to arrange dances.

Of this group was Mrs. David Sears, who carried one of the longest ostrich fans I've ever seen. A salmon-pink it was, and it made a very effective shield of color against the former Mrs. White's gown. The yellow silk with its charming butterfly design in brilliants.

BOBBED-HAIRED Miss "Patsy" Gray, who is still being congratulated upon her clever emceeing of the excruciating "Mrs. Smith" in the Junior League's offering of last week, wore a frock of silver-white tulle with a cluster of white ostrich feathers nodding from the hem of flaring skirt.

Of course, petite Miss Barbara Forbes was arrayed as usual in quality old-fashioned frock reminiscent of grandmother's day.

She wore a dress of turquoise blue with bands of a deeper shade of blue at the hem of the very wide, long skirt. Never does this dark-haired miss wear a dancing frock unless she is pateted after the style of 1860.

Another frock fashioned along similar lines was that worn by auburn-haired Miss Louise Page of green and gold changeable tulle. It was, with narrow bands of brown for handling the short sleeves and the neck of the dress.

MRS. HERBERT JACQUES

Mrs. Herbert Jaques of No. 11 Gloucester street, who is one of the patronesses for the senior supper dance, the first of which takes place at the Copple-Piazza this evening. (Photo by Marseau.)

Give Culture to Radio, for Christmas

Mingled with all the spirit of Christmas is Music. Cheery music of carolers guided to welcomes by candle beams. Hall-wed music. Music of radio, from afar, in the ether, like the heavenly Christmas music at first.

You give friends and family all the music of Christmas—of all the year—when you give Thorola Loud Speaker.

Thorola brings culture to radio with exclusive betterments in musical reproduction. Thorola is known as "the pipe organ of loud speakers" for its flawless tone quality with maximum volume.

Basic among Thorola advancements is the far larger size of the reproducing unit, permitting exact conformance to laws of sound—impossible with the usual cramped construction! Only this reproducer gives you the Thorola Separix, which preserves the overtones vital to true music or natural voice.

Projecting the sound, without distortion, is Thorola's Thorola horn compound, a laboratory product free from the limitations found in natural materials.

And no other loud speaker has the Thorola Synchronizer, which balances each Thorola with each set, just as every other circuit factor must be individually balanced.

Thorola for Christmas reflects artistic taste; brings the joy of new stations coming clear and strong; mixes the finest radio receiver with the best. So there is strife out as THE correct radio for Christmas is Radio Christmas. There cannot be more than one Thorola. Go to your dealer early.

Thorola is actually given to the radio receiver. The 10-day Refund Warranty, based on American-made components, if they must fulfill every claim of Thorola as perfect, never, LONG QUALITY.

By Wm. A. McKeever
BOY, it is better to begin at the bottom and climb to the top, or to begin at the top and slide to the bottom.
Today, I have come upon an example of each of these two classes among so-called business men—a climber and a slider.
Thirty years ago the climber began at manual labor at $7.50 per day. Later he quit this place and took a job he liked better, but at only $12.50 per day.
Twenty years ago the slider began with a big flourish. With $2,000 of borrowed capital he made his new business look like a million. The borrowed money was spent chiefly for office and for making a false show of prosperity.
Today the climber is head of a big manufacturing firm which employs hundreds of men and he drives his own car. But he is a lot above earth in a truck and is too good to be a comrade of the peasant man of the street.
During the thirty years he has climbed a long way. It took him five years to make all the overall jobs in the business. It required another seven years to learn all the ins and outs of being a boss. Six more years were in the advertising department. Now he is president and the company is doing a flourishing business.

Notice that the slider took his flourish at the start. During the twenty years of his business experience he has flourished in colors and failed five times. His last crash left him penniless.
Think it over, boy. Notice that the climber was first a laborer, and then he voluntarily reduced his own wages in order to get the job which was more to his liking. Notice that he climbed slowly and learned every step of the way. Notice that by slowly mastering every detail of the work he made himself peculiarly fit to superintend other men and finally to head the business.
Now, boy, go to the bottom of the ladder and climb. Get a job which challenges your best thought and endeavor and stick to it. The wages in the long time may be relatively low. That is nearly always the case with the early years of the ladder.
There is a certain peculiar joy in seeing your climb. It is the joy of your power to pull yourself up. There is a peculiar satisfaction in seeing your climb. It is the joy of your power to pull yourself up. There is a peculiar satisfaction in seeing your climb. It is the joy of your power to pull yourself up.

YOU are deeply interested. You probably more deeply interested than you know, in many new ideas of education, especially if you have children.
This is especially true of the new scientific practice of determining the mental capacity of a child before determining its grade.
There is nothing more unjust or more cruel than to take a bright child and a dull child together and expect them to learn together.
Such an arrangement is a damage to both.
There is nothing more pitiful than the discouraged child who has failed in the race with more capable children.
There are but a few things more tragic than a brilliant child who has become both discouraged and disgusted by being held down to the slow pace of a dullard.
There are not a few things more tragic than a brilliant child who has become both discouraged and disgusted by being held down to the slow pace of a dullard.

How to set down on the side: Grip the chair with your arms and lean your body against the back. The feet are to hold your body steady. The feet are to hold your body steady. The feet are to hold your body steady.
The individual needs of the child require the cooperation of the home, the school and all the agencies directed toward the child's health and social welfare.
The broad education of the child requires practical common sense methods, as determined by science. They must be based upon fundamental biological facts concerning mental evolution by which the mind is developed in the child.
The true philosophy of education gives consideration of elementary principles of psychology and mental hygiene of the child.
These facts are best studied in an organized mental clinic which is no longer an experiment. The service of an organized mental clinic gives reliable data on the mental status and possibilities of the child.
The mental clinic should be an equal footing with physical health consultation.
The protection of mental welfare is now a community measure and the public school mental clinic will stimulate popular interest in mental hygiene.
